What's the difference between a BA in Art and a BFA in Art?
A BA in Art allows you to major in a studio art area (Ceramics, Drawing, Graphic Design, Metals, Painting, Printmaking, or Sculpture) and minor in a non-studio area within the Art Department (Art History or Museum Studies) or in an area of study outside of the art department. In addition to 21 credit hours of art foundation and 24 credit hours of major area coursework required, BA students must take 6 credits of a foreign language and 12 credits of upper division block elective courses within the College of Liberal Arts but outside of their major and minor area departments. The minor area in the BA is typically 18 credits but some minors may require more credits.
A BFA is a studio art degree and as such requires the major concentration and the minor to be in studio areas. As part of the art foundations, students must complete the beginning level course in each of the seven studio areas along with two additional art history courses beyond the two surveys. Students on the BFA plan will complete 48 credit hours in the art foundations, 21 hours in their major concentration, and 12 credit hours in

UTEP Department of Art For-Credit Internship Policy

The Department of Art encourages internship opportunities for our students; we believe they can provide a rewarding experience for both student and employer. Furthermore, we believe these opportunities reflect the University's mission as part of our community.

For graphic design students, Graphic Design 4356, Internship, is a for-credit, three-hour course, available on request for qualified advanced graphic design students. This course can be a door opener—the first step toward a successful career. Our students have worked for design studios, advertising agencies, in-house art/design/marketing offices, publishers, television studios, museums, printers, and more, both within and outside of El Paso. In so doing, they have gained priceless, real world experience, hands-on training, and keen insight into the challenges and opportunities of the design industry. So many employers have been impressed with the caliber of our students that internships frequently turn into jobs.

To qualify, internships must represent a genuine learning experience. They must adhere to University policy and the U. S. Department of Labor guidelines. In addition, the Department of Art has established the following criteria for students and employers:
